Ease of Use: With Portable Kapow Punch Clock, you can simply create a new project and define each task that will have its own duration and associated hourly rate. Just start and stop the task with a single click and each task will keep track of the working time. Once the work is done, you just have to schedule the project to be billed and mark it as complete. At the end of the day, you can generate reports that show you the hours spent on the project, the hourly rate, the month and the week of the current project's last billing. We are in process of developing a Software application for Windows to automate user reporting related tasks. It would be very helpful if you could provide feedback on it. The article below is an example of the kind of solution we are working on. hi, i am planning to develop a software application for windows that is a web based software for which user needs to enter a time, duration and a hourly rate for the job and the software will enter the value in the database and if the user is not done within the time and duration configured by him, a message is displayed to the user and he has to enter the job again, if the user changes the job its job automatically registered. so it will be like a punch clock this is just an example. any help will be much appreciated and even the code to be written will be very helpful. We have developed a web application by coding in PHP, HTML and CSS. We are looking to develop some corporate web applications. Are there any list of companies and their specifications that we can try to contact. We can provide screen shots of the web app we developed with all the required screenshots. Are there any references or tutorials we can read up on. I Need a zabbix monitor (monitor a services in zabbix) Ideally a thread can be created where the user enter the service name and it should be monitored
